

Thirty white horses

Thirty white horses

On a red hill.

First they tramp, then they stamp,
Then they stand still.

About the rhyme

This short rhyme about horses can be repeated a number of times – getting faster and faster each time.

Activities

- Pretend to be horses on a hill. Tramp and stamp your feet, and then stand still.
- Talk to your children about horses and encourage them to share their experiences – real or imaginary – of horses. Then walk, gallop, trot and jump around together like horses.
- Invite your children to use recycled materials to build a stable that a horse would like to live in.
